

THE QUEST FOR THE MUSTARD JACKET 2006

Player Forecast

Like Hooters wings through Ice's intestines, another year has passed quickly. Fans from across the world are readying themselves for the annual rite of passage, and once again all eyes and ears will be transfixed on OC, MD for the K8 2006 Club Championship. Many will say that the Mustard Jacket isn't as prestigious as it once was, and this writer hopes that the Jacket will make more appearances in the coming year at events, and that it is treated as it should be, as one of the most exalted and illustrious awards in the sports world. The K8 family had a golf year filled with laughs, tears, love, hate, worship, envy, slices, hooks, duffs, controversy, greenies, boobie balls, skins and occasionally there was a good hole played. Ice, Roy, Joe, Jim, Dave J, and Ben took the bull by the horns and provided service beyond the call of duty to make the club run smoothly. This year's field promises to be as exciting as any in the history of the sport. As always, This report is for information only and not intended for wagering. It is based solely on jaded observation, hearsay, and other unsubstantiated sources.

The handicaps this year will play a very important role, as some front line players, and former club champs who have survived the intense drama that is the 3 day Quest will be playing with extra strokes. Ben is the only K8 that lost strokes on his handicap, and amazingly 3 K8's are receiving at least 9 more strokes than at this time last year, and 2 of them are former club champs. This year's tourney could develop into a Watergate like scandal with all of the controversy that could ensue from the additional strokes. I can see Hojo, his face blacked out breaking into a Best Western room trying to steal the putter of the current leader, as other K8 see his shadow from the Fagers parking lot. Hopefully the handicaps will stay true and the K8 penalty 50 pound sand bag won't be dumped into someone's toilet for sandbagging. Based on this intense analysis this author believes we will be witnessing 940 being awarded the Jacket again with Money, Pure T, T-Heel, Squeezy and Duck 5 to 10 strokes behind after day 3.
